Description

The biggest impression in this game is just the fact that the creators managed to keep the balance between all these characters. In online games that bet on team competition, balance is an absolute foundation, and yet most of them can not achieve it. There is always a stronger unit, weapon or hero that gives an unfair advantage to one playing over the other. In " League of Legends " there is no such thing, which is inconceivable with such a large number of variables. Inconceivable, but true. Even if a hero is really too strong, the creators immediately make corrections, which weaken them and put them back in an even row. Or rather on the edge of the football, which balances the whole game ... "League of Legends" is a game extremely sophisticated and advanced, but its great advantage, and yet another one is that it does not deter new players. Not only is it easy to learn the basics and to have fun, but also ... at first glance, its appearance seems so friendly and encouraging that judging by it no one would suspect "League of Legends" for such depth.

Review

League of Legends, or the famous abbreviation "LOL", is one of the first big multiplayer video games. It is developed by Riot Games for Microsoft Windows and macOS in 2009. And ten years later, it is still one of the most fascinating games in the world.

There are different maps in the game, which require different number of players. The most famous one is for ten players. That includes five players in a team, where every player has a special position in the map. Gamers can choose between a wide variety of heroes, who evolve during the game. To help them evolve, the map contains different monsters. Also, a great idea the ability of heroes to hide in the bushes, which makes the game more unpredictable.

The game is an example of excellence with all of these amazing heroes. There are more than a hundred champions in League Of Legends and the creators never stop creating new ones. All of them have different personalities and unique powers. Every single one of them has their unique looks, which makes them so memorable. Except for the champions and the monsters, the game includes minions. Those are tiny little warriors, who fight for you and for the enemy team.

The game is not easy to play. It requires big amount of precise in the shots and a lot of moving in order not to get hit. One of the hardest things is the team work. You get to realize that it is not possible to work very well with everybody. In many games it has been a struggle to play with other random players just because of the game style that every gamer has.

Even though LOL does not offer every legend for free, there are champions who are available to try each week and that is great because you have the chance to try them and if you like the hero, you can buy it. A great thing about the game is that while playing you earn currency from every completed match. That lets you buy champions without spending tons of money.

Communication is very important in League Of Legends. One little disadvantage is the lack of voice chat, which is a pity and the constant chatting is very frustrating and can cause a failure.

There is an option in the game, where players can surrender if a loss is near and it seems fair that four out of five players have to agree in order to give up.

There is a ranking system in the game, which sorts players by their skills and helps them fight with or against players with their abilities. The ranks are: Iron, Bronze, Silver, Gold, Platinum, Diamond, Master, Grandmaster and Challenger.

The game is extremely fun and the champions are fantastic. It requires fast reactions, playing in a team, original styles and great strategies. It is full of unpredictable moments, funny situations and extremely delightful victories. For me, it is one of the best games ever and without doubt it is worth trying.
