Created in Buenos Aires, it is one of the most downloaded apps, with a catalog of more than 500,000 programs and 40 million episodes, reaching anywhere in the world. You can download it free available for Android and iOs.

The first thing you have to know is what a podcast is, an audio format in which its main feature is its online broadcast. There have been many platforms that have emerged to host this type of content, allowing your listeners to be updated with their favorite topics. These applications are being updated so you don't miss a thing.

The great advantage of The Podcast app is that you can listen to it on your mobile device, without the need for a time or a place to enjoy your main program.

It is totally free and gives you the possibility of doing your own radio projects, not just being a listener. You can create and share your concerns about a topic with the rest of the community and download them so you can listen to them on another device or without an Internet connection.

You can customize The Podcast App however you want, subscribe to channels, or users, and link it to your account so you don't miss each new chapter. Each podcast has a specific feed, which means that each time the hosting is updated it detects it and sends you a notification. In its thousands of programs you have all you can imagine, and the most varied themes. Explore its categories and discover a world of opinions.

Do you hear something you like and think other people will like it too? With The Podcast App you can share what you are hearing on your social networks, with your friends or through other applications on your mobile. It is possible to do it with the podcast profile or only single episodes that you liked a lot.

It is not necessary to log in or register to enjoy its benefits, but it is recommended for The Podcast App to register and remember you, linking to your profile everything you do on the platform, you can also take advantage of other options it offers, such as being able to synchronize all your devices so you don't need to download the same podcast on all of them.

In The Podcast App you can search by categories or interests, with a recommendation function that tells you which are the most listened to and best rated podcasts of the moment. Among them you can start in a new language or skill, learn knowledge about other subjects or simply listen to programs that help you stay healthy.

Every time a new one appears that resembles your tastes, those you have in your favorites or what you are listening to right now, The Podcast App will teach you so that you can find it in a simple way and discover new possibilities. If you do not want me to send you these types of suggestions, you can disable them from the settings of the app itself.

The Podcast App is free, but it has an annual subscription for $ 9.99 with which you can eliminate the advertising that appears between episodes. You can also remove visual advertising for $ 14.99, this service allows you to freely enter the Deep Dives library, which has select and exclusive programs, letting you unlock their full listening history.

With a very simple interface, in the top bar of the search engine of The Podcast App put the title of the podcast that you want to listen to and all those who have the keywords that you have put will appear below, showing not only the programs, but others that you think You may be interested in that theme.
