Aptoide is an app store available only for Android devices, which serves pass download app that you can not find in the most popular store : Google Play.it is a valid alternative where there are many different options.

The idea of creating this application comes from 2009, when Paulo Trezentos made the proposal that was soon accepted. Two years later, in November 2011, it was established in Europe.
It became very well known, in fact in 2013 Aptoide received 750,000 in seed funds from Portugal Ventures. Today it is available in 17 languages and almost everyone knows it.

The main idea was to develop something that was not planned and controlled by Google. Anyone who created an app could share it with the rest of what Android was using.

To download Aptoide it is clearly not possible to use Google Play, as there is a non-compete clause in the distribution agreement. However, if you want it on your phone, you have to allow installation from "unknown sources" on imports from your phone.
Today, Aptoide is an independent Android Market with more than 60,000 applications for free download on smartphones, tablets and computers.

A few days ago, was born the new version of Aptoide, the 6.3.0. that we may love and surprise with improvements and optimizations described below.
Despite this Google told users that Aptoide IS NOT a secure App, because it can contain malware and damage cell phones. Unfortunately there is something real about what Google wrote: this can happen when we download apps from stores other than the Play Store.

So Aptoide is not 100% secure, but we can also find malware on Google Play. Obviously, the probability is greater in the new app, although it is the only one against which this fabulous application has, where there are many advantages.
In Aptoide we find a variety of apps and there is no blocking by region, ie you can access all the apps from wherever you want in the world.

To use this store well, it is necessary that you download the APK file of Aptoide from its official website, which is the safest.

Once installed, the app allows you to access the varied catalogue of Aptoide, you only have to start it and you will see a main page similar to the Google Play Store. There is the opportunity to see the most outstanding apps, the latest ones that have been added and the most popular.
