Description

Hearthstone 's assumptions are not complicated. The goal of each clash is to defeat an enemy champion. Everyone starts a match with 30 health points to conquer, it should be the whole pool of health to pick up attacking. Attacks are derived using units, spells or weapons-all of these elements are of course in the game in the form of cards that we lecture on the virtual table. When launching the game for the first time, we will have to complete a tutorial that presents very well the basics of gameplay. Later, we gain the first deck and we can roll the clash with the computer or other players. At the beginning we have one hero to unlock others, we have to overcome each one once. More about the heroes in the rest of the tutorial. The game's modes include unranked, ranking, and Arena gameplay. In the first two we use a deck created by hand from your own cards. Arena mode puts us in the choice of one of three randomly selected heroes. After selecting the character, we proceed to laying the deck with the presented cards-on the screen appear three, every time we need to choose one. The action is repeated 30 times, thus we complete the waist. In Arena mode we play up to three losers or up to twelve victories. Each match begins with a presentation of three or four cards, which we get to hand-we can exchange them for others, or keep. Then the rivalry begins, in each turn we gain an additional card from the waist, as well as one mana Crystal. These crystals "we pay" for the showdown of the card. We use unit cards and spells to attack enemy units or the enemy itself. More about the types and possibilities of the cards in the next section of the guide. At the end of the introduction, a few words about gold-virtual currency. We buy a set of cards and an entrance ticket to the Arena (a separate game mode). We earn gold by winning dues and performing quests that most often consist of winning a certain number of fights with a specific hero. New cards

Review

Blizzard Entertainment hits the mark again with Hearthstone. As we are used to it is a fantastic product, full of magic, adrenaline and entertainment. There will be no equal game in Hearthstone. The proposal is that of a card game with the characters from the Warcraft saga. It can be downloaded free of charge and integrated purchases are available for those who want extra rewards.

Hearthstone brings a wide variety of heroes and possible combinations in its decks. The person must use various strategies to develop the style of play with which they feel most comfortable.

The app has online play between multiple users or adventures individually. This allows the person to train as much as they want against artificial intelligence before jumping into the battle arena. Hearthstone is constantly renewing itself with unpublished letter deliveries that occur regularly from Blizzard.

✓ Pros

- The joy of possible victories,
- Fun to create a wide variety of decks,

✗ Cons

- The game gets bored after a long time,
- Not all cards have suitably selected stats which makes the individual deck practically invathe

Tips

1. Focus on increasing the levels of your favorite classes, which will allow you to get special cards, -The Arena is unlocked when you access all classes in training mode. The first entrance to the arena is free, but it is worth a little to pause and first gain experience in Duel mode, -In the beginning it is worth to focus on 1-2 classes and master them to a good degree. This will not only allow for faster winnings, but rather a deeper understanding of game rules and specific strategies.
