Palco MP3 is a platform for Brazilian music artists developed by Studio Sol, a Brazilian company also responsible for the Cifra Club and Letras.mus.br platforms.

With the aim of being a space for Brazilian artists and bands to showcase their work in the field of music, Palco MP3 increases musical productions. The platform offers artists the possibility of creating an artistic page to add music, photos, videos and concert schedules, providing a unique digital environment to which an audience reaches millions of Brazilians.

All the functions available in Palco MP3 (desktop and application) are free, from registration to access to the pages, albums and songs of the users, who download songs when the artist authorizes this type of action. The platform has more than 170 playlists organized by music styles available to listen to, more than 114,000 registered artists and more than 1 million free songs to listen to.

Created on October 17, 2003, Palco MP3 was created with the aim of facilitating the dissemination of music by thousands of Brazilian artists who were beginning their careers and did not have adequate space for it.

To do this, Studio Sol created a site that provided free space for artists to promote music in mp3 format. As the site grew, the actions expanded so that artists and bands could enjoy and promote their own artistic career. Thus, the Stage MP3 has become the digital platform that has a musical record of artists from all states of the country.

Big names in the Brazilian music market, in different styles, had the beginning of their careers outlined in the MP3 Stage, such as Marília Mendonça, Simone and Simaria, Michel Teló, MC Kevinho, Naiara Azevedo, Aldair Playboy, Gustavo Miotto, Hungary Hip Hop, among others.
