During the summer of 2006, YouTube was one of the fastest growing websites and became the 5th most popular site in the Alexa Internet ranking. According to a study from July 16, 2006, 100 million movies per day were watched on YouTube, and 65,000. new movies were placed on the site within 24 hours. The site had an average of almost 20 million visitors per month. The first movie published on YouTube was "Me at the zoo" by jawed. The movie was uploaded on April 23, 2005 at 20:27. YouTube is available on most platforms . On Windows and MacOS platforms, you can easily access YouTube using a web browser. On mobile devices, you can easily download the YouTube app for Android and iOS . The YouTube Android app has a very small difference compared to the iOS app. The app also provides users with multiple display options to meet their needs, preferences and situations. For example, users can adjust the video quality of what they are watching to avoid slow loading or large data costs. For users with hearing difficulties, YouTube has a caption feature that any user can contribute to help the uploader or other viewers. If no one from the community has added any signatures, the application provides automatically generated signatures that are generally quite accurate , although they sometimes have some errors. It is also possible to share and download videos from the application . To download videos, users only have to press the download button on the video and the download will start immediately. Sharing movies is just as easy. Just click the share button and choose the social media platform and the person you want to send the video to.

Review

YouTube is undoubtedly the most widely used online video platform in the world. Its number of users does not stop growing and there are already millions of registered daily visits, with more than a billion hours that you can watch and more than 400 new videos per minute.

With the arrival of the mobile application of this social video network, you can now take your favorite content wherever you want, without the need to use other applications, and without any type of limit. Download YouTube for free, you find it available for Android and iOS.

It is the second most visited website on the planet, only behind Google and ahead of the almighty Facebook itself. With its variety of content, there is no video in the world that you cannot find in the YouTube application, becoming the second most popular search engine and it has broken the way of consuming the audiovisual products of all people.

Its form of use is very simple, using its search engine it is very easy and fast to find the video you want to see. In addition, it becomes a full-fledged social experience: its users see, share and interact with those of other people. The way a channel is consumed makes people more and more prefer to watch television on YouTube.

But not only do you have the ability to upload videos that have already been recorded and edited previously, with YouTube you can also broadcast live or prepare a premiere. Everyone can have their own channel, in this way you share the videos you want, with the theme that you like the most, and completely free of charge. With your own channel you will have full control of what you upload to the platform and the comments that other users leave you.

As a social network, users can vote with likes or dislikes on each of the videos, share them even if they are not theirs, leave a comment or subscribe to the channel so that when new content is uploaded, you receive a notification so you don't miss out. nothing. The number of subscribers on YouTube means the level of popularity, as happens in other social networks.
